

Quebec and Maine. It is, therefore, interesting to find in a package of undetermined material recently received from the National Herbarium G. brevipes collected September 1, 1891, by Dr. E. A. Mearns on Pike's Island at Fort Snelling, Minnesota.— M. L. FERNALD.

PLANTS APPARENTLY NEW TO THE MAINE CATALOGUE.

ARTHUR H. NORTON.

THE following plants, I believe, are without published records for their occurrence in Maine. Specimens of all of them are preserved in the Herbarium of the Portland Society of Natural History.

It may be noted that these are all indigenous American species, of southern rather than northern distribution.

SCIRPUS PLANIFOLIUS Muhl. In the Herbarium of the Portland Society of Natural History there is a sheet of this species, collected at Wells, Maine, by Rev. Joseph Blake, August, 1881. This was labelled Fimbristylis capillaris. The herbarium number is 1458.

CAREX LUPULIFORMIS Sartwell. This species was collected at Stroudwater, September 22, 1907, by Mr. A. R. Stubbs of Portland. This has been determined by Professor M. L. Fernald.

ACNIDA CANNABINA L. On the 16th of September, 1905, I found this plant in several small spots on the brackish marshes on the easterly shore near the mouth of the Presumpscot River, a place known as the Dyke Marshes and about four miles from Portland. I have seen it on several later occasions which shows that it is permanent.

LUDVIGIA POLYCARPA Short & Peter. Specimens were taken by Mr. A. R. Stubbs in Deering, Maine, August 28, 1908.

LILAEOPSIS LINEATA (Michx.) Greene. During the meeting of the Josselyn Botanical Society at Brunswick, in 1911, while with a party of the Society, at Winnegance Creek, on August 23, led by Miss Kate Furbish, I came upon a small patch of this plant. Though the patch was small, the plant thickly covered the space. It was well hidden from view by Spartina glabra alterniflora which lined the shore.
